“ One of the best things about my job is how much I learn from my students -- sometimes from their writing, sometimes from the way they live their lives. Mark was ever open-minded, ever desiring to learn and experience. One would never know about his battle with cancer from being around him on a day-to-day basis. His optimism and forward-thinking serve as a guide to us all.

“ Mark mon ami, mon semblable, mon frère. I am glad that you are finally free from the physical pains you had to go through these last five years. I am sad that I won't hear your voice recounting the epic adventures of your life. I learned so much from them. Thank you. I won't fully miss you because you left so much of you in your writings! Whenever I'll miss your presence, I'll turn to your poems! Thanks for being one of those rare friends who knew when to listen and when to talk. I love you man. I send warm thoughts of condolence to your friends and family.
