

Shirely Jean Pringle

June 21, 1942 - July 25, 2024

Shirley Jean Pringle, a beacon of love and faith, embarked on her eternal journey on July 25, 2024, leaving behind a legacy of joy, service, and song. Born on June 21, 1942, in Eastover, South Carolina, Shirley's life was a testament to the power of positivity and the strength of the human spirit. She transitioned peacefully in Murrieta, California, after a valiant battle with cancer, surrounded by the love and prayers of her family.

Shirley's educational journey culminated with a degree in Business and Administration in Massachusetts, equipping her with the skills that would see her excel as a contracting officer. Her professional path was marked by recognition and gratitude, most notably from the military, which awarded Shirley numerous certificates of appreciation for her unwavering dedication and service. But her contributions extended far beyond the office; she was a champion for the underprivileged, investing her time and resources to improve the lives of homeless veterans—a cause close to her heart.

But it was not just in her professional life that Shirley shone. Her passions were as diverse and vibrant as her personality. A gifted singer, she once graced the stage with Diana Ross & the Supremes, sharing her melodious voice with adoring audiences. Shirley's faith was the cornerstone of her existence; she loved her church and lived her life as a testament to her beliefs, often found reading her bible and embodying the scripture, "Love thy neighbor as thyself."

Shirley found joy in cooking, often gathering her family around the table for a home-cooked meal. These moments were precious to her, as spending time with her beloved grandbabies, Jordyn, Kennedy, and Quentin, was among her greatest pleasures. Her sons, Cedrick and Tony, stood as pillars of the family, reflecting the loving and spirited nature their mother instilled in them. They, along with countless others whose lives she touched, will forever cherish the memories of her spirited laughter, her unwavering support, and the lessons of love she taught to them.

Those who knew Shirley will remember her as a loving matriarch, a faith-filled servant, and a spirited force for good. She was a woman who not only read the Bible but lived its teachings, embodying the scripture, "Let all that you do be done in love" (1 Corinthians 16:14). Her life was a vibrant tapestry woven with threads of generosity, kindness, and an unshakeable belief in the goodness of people.

In the words of Maya Angelou, "People will forget what you said, people will forget what you did, but people will never forget how you made them feel." Shirley's presence was a gift to all who felt it, and her memory will continue to inspire acts of kindness and service in the hearts of those she left behind.

As we celebrate Shirley Jean Pringle's remarkable journey, let us be motivated by her example to live fully, love deeply, and serve selflessly. Her story does not end here; it lives on through the lives she has shaped, the love she has spread, and the joyous song that will forever echo in the memories of those who loved her. Shirley's life was a melody of hope, a symphony of grace, and her final note, though bittersweet, is one of triumphant peace.
